Hints For Keeping Your Friends Happy

(NAPSA)—Picking just the right presents for your friends while looking like a blooming genius at gift giving time can be easier than many people realize.

A company that’s been trusted for more than 40 years to deliver smiles has new, truly original gifts available this holiday season, as well as tried-and-true treasures, all designed to surprise and delight.

Consider these beauties:

Santa’s Surprise

A great gift doesn’t have to take up a great deal of room. Consider The Night Before Christmas Holiday Flower Tree*, for instance: Even if they already have a full-on flamm-Anbaum to gather round, your friends might get a big kick out of this small(er) tree, potted in a charming planter that looks like a certain jolly of elf’s misdirection. It makes a terrific table-topper for the holiday—and it can be planted outdoors once Rudolph and the rest head back north.

New, Truly Original Gifts

The Night Before Christmas Holiday Flower Tree

For those who agree on limits, 78 percent are happy with how much their spouse spends. That number drops to 63 percent of people who discuss and agree on spending limits; 63 percent of those who agree on limits are twice as likely to wish their spouse spent. That number drops to 63 percent of people who discuss and agree on spending limits; 63 percent of those who agree on limits are twice as likely to wish their spouse spent. That number drops to 63 percent of people who discuss and agree on spending limits; 63 percent of those who agree on limits are twice as likely to wish their spouse spent. That number drops to 63 percent of people who discuss and agree on spending limits; 63 percent of those who agree on limits are twice as likely to wish their spouse spent. That number drops to 63 percent of people who discuss and agree on spending limits; 63 percent of those who agree on limits are twice as likely to wish their spouse spent. That number drops to 63 percent of people who discuss and agree on spending limits; 63 percent of those who agree on limits are twice as likely to wish their spouse spent. That number drops to 63 percent of people who discuss and agree on spending limits; 63 percent of those who agree on limits are twice as likely to wish their spouse spent. That number drops to 63 percent of people who discuss and agree on spending limits; 63 percent of those who agree on limits are twice as likely to wish their spouse spent. That number drops to 63 percent of people who discuss and agree on spending limits; 63 percent of those who agree on limits are twice as likely to wish their spouse spent. That number drops to 63 percent of people who discuss and agree on spending limits; 63 percent of those who agree on limits are twice as likely to wish their spouse spent.