TRAVELERS

Easing Your Packing Woes

(NAPSA)—Traveling may have become more complicated than ever, but there are ways to make it enjoyable.

To save space without sacrificing luxury, try switching your full-size styling appliances for a smaller travel size. For example, the ion® Travel Dryer with Tourmaline is high powered but small enough to leave room for all your shoes. The Hot N Silky Mini Flat Iron saves lots of space and straightens like a charm. Use it for bangs and touch-ups when not on the road. For curly or wavy styles there's the Jilbère Ceramic Travel Hair Setter. It fits neatly in a suitcase and has five far infrared heat-generating ceramic rollers for faster, gentler styling. Dual voltage makes it excellent for international as well as domestic travel.

The Styling Iron Travel Pouch/Mat by Belson eliminates the problem of styling your hair with a curling iron or flat iron and then having to immediately pack up and hit the road with no time left for it to cool. The pouch lets you safely pack hot irons and protects the other items in your suitcase.

Due to new regulations, you can no longer carry liquids over 3 ounces aboard a plane. For those who don't want to check their luggage and don't want to waste valuable carry-on space with full-size bottles, travel bottles are the answer. Sally Beauty Supply carries a line of travel bottles by Sprayco that each hold 3 ounces or less. A Sprayco mini-funnel eases the headache of transferring products from one bottle to another. For an even easier solution, you can take along ion® shampoo and conditioner packettes. Inexpensive and convenient, the packettes hold just enough for a short trip and can be tossed before you head home.
