

The First And Last Steps In Skin Care

(NAPSA)—There's good news for those who are concerned about the state of their skin. Two new products are available that can be used as the first and last steps of a skin care routine.

Both from Kiehl's Since 1851, one incorporates the healing and cleansing power of calendula while the other immediately and visibly transforms your complexion and helps to perfect skin over time.

Regardless of age, pores and imperfections become more prominent as skin is exposed to daily aggressors. This can result in a rough and uneven texture.

Two new products can be used as the first and last steps in a daily skin care regimen to transform your complexion.

The chemists at Kiehl's Since 1851 created Calendula Deep Cleansing Foaming Face Wash to thoroughly yet gently clean and refresh skin, removing surface dirt and oil while ensuring the skin barrier is protected.

Finally, to help protect your skin before makeup but after your moisturizer and SPF, those same chemists have created Micro-Blur Skin Perfector, a lightweight formula that instantly smoothes skin, providing a "soft-focus" and more uniform appearance that also delivers long-lasting, skin-perfecting benefits in just four weeks.
