

Reading For Pleasure Dept.

Romantic Thrills

(NAPSA)—New York Times bestselling author Heather Graham enlivens her newest tale of romantic suspense, Haunted (MIRA Books, $6.99), with the ghost of a woman out to avenge her own murder.

There's something supernatural going on at Melody House, a Colonial-era manor with a checkered past in Stoneyville, Va. When guests and staff at the historic home complain of being visited—attacked—by the specter of a woman in a white gown, owner Matt Stone realizes something has got to be done.

Matt, who is also the local sheriff, reluctantly calls in Harris Investigations, a group of paranormal researchers. He is less than thrilled when the beautiful Darcy Tremayne—who resembles Matt's ex-wife—appears on the job.

Though experienced in her field, Darcy initially is terrified by the manifestations of the tormented ghost. And the more she unveils in her attempts to understand the apparition's urgent pleas, the more she suspects that foul play may not be as far in the past as she first assumed.

Haunted is available wherever paperback books are sold, or online at www.mirabooks.com.