

A Parent Playbook With Activities For Kids

(NAPSA)—A new playbook is turning a page in helping parents find activities that inspire their kids' imagination.

How important is that? Very, especially when you consider that studies show that children spend more time online and watching TV than they do participating in meaningful family activities.

A paperback activity book is a page turner for parents.

The book, "50 Plus One Fun Things to Do with Kids During Summer," helps to stir up an interest in knowledge. Ideas from the book will also help youngsters stay physically fit.

From nature hikes to arts and crafts and even suggestions to make breakfast fun, the book has hundreds of great ideas and provides parents with the details they need to organize the activities.

Parents who are looking for activities that build strong family ties, and those who need ideas for special occasions, neighborhood parties or just rainy days, can find this new "50 Plus One" title at www.EncouragementPress.com and bookstores.
