

A Quacker Christmas

(NAPSA)—Putting sparkle into your seasonal celebrations may be easier with some how-tos from a well-known designer.

Exuding homespun style, Jeanne Bice is one of the most popular faces on QVC. Founder of The Quacker Factory, her clothes strike a chord with millions of fans because they are casual, embellished, unique and fun. It's not just Bice's creativity with designs that endears her to fans—it's her attitude.

In her new book, “Jeanne Bice’s Quacker Factory Christmas” (Health Communications, $19.95), Bice teaches readers: If you can’t fix it, decorate it; give from the heart; laugh loudly and often; let your friends pick you up; and realize you don’t have to be perfect. Her book captures her practical ideas and her inspirational, positive attitude toward the holidays—and all of life’s ups and downs.

With the trend toward nesting and family gatherings, tips range from informal get-togethers to simple yet creative recipes (e.g., Candy Cane Martinis) and homemade gifts (no, it’s not gauche).

To learn more about The Quacker Factory and for a free preview chapter of the book, visit www.quackerfactory.com. The book is available in local stores and at www.hcibooks.com.