

Taking The New SAT

(NAPSA)—High school students graduating in the year 2006 will have to take a new version of the SAT—but educators say there's no reason to get testy about the exam. In fact, many say the new SAT is just as coachable as the old one, and doing well on it is simply a matter of learning to reason through problems.

McGraw Hill America's Leading Educational Publisher!

THE ONLY BOOK THAT GIVES YOU:

The 8 Critical reasoning skills that will get you to the right answer

The fastest way to a higher score on the NEW SAT!

A Proven Method for writing a great essay

5 Practice tests with detailed answer keys to help you identify and master your problem areas

The Breakthrough College Hill Method

McGraw-Hill's SAT^{*} I

- Detailed coverage of the new advanced Math sections, expanded Critical Reading, and English Essay
- Smart cards for easy review of all subject areas
- Test-taking strategies that help you out-think the test
- 5 Full-length practice SATs • 20 Full-length practice essays

CHRISTOPHER BLACK AND MARK ANESTIS, COLLEGE HILL COACHING

Study guides may help students who take the new SAT.

That's the idea behind a strategy known mnemonically as MAPS-CATCH. The approach, which is featured in a book called "McGraw-Hill's SAT 1" (McGraw-Hill, $12.95), teaches students to replace habits and thinking that could impede effective problem solving with creativity, awareness and flexibility.

The book also provides complete coverage of new SAT topics, such as Algebra II and the English Essay—includes five full-length simulated SATs, 20 full length practice essays, flash cards covering all sections of the test, and a flowchart to help students manage study time. For more information, visit www.books.mcgraw-hill.com.