Best Bets For New Babies

(NAPSA)—Baby's first Christmas may be all the merrier with some gift-giving help from the experts.

Parenting expert Dr. Tanya Altmann has created a gift list and checked it twice. Her recommendations include guaranteed-to-please gifts for baby and parents, plus a few items to fill up baby's first stocking.

For Moms And Dads

Dr. Altmann stresses that new parents want gifts that will make their life more convenient and allow them to regain their freedom.

- The Grow With Me Snugli carrier allows parents the comfort of having baby close while keeping hands free. Using a soft carrier simplifies activities like household chores, running errands or walking the dog.

- The ComfortEase manual breast pump lets mom extract milk anywhere away from home, like at work or in the car. It especially comes in handy when in places without electricity, such as at a picnic.

For Baby

Choose gifts that encourage babies to learn and have fun, while keeping them safe.

- Stationary activity centers, like the Portable Fun UltraSaucer, include toys to stimulate sight, sound and touch while allowing them to swivel, bounce, rock and stand. The UltraSaucer provides hours of entertainment for babies four months and older.

- The Comfort Dimensions Premier stroller works well because of its extra-large storage basket, ergonomic one-hand steering and infant car seat compatibility.

- For mealtimes, the Envision Plus high chair has storage for quick access to bibs and towels, a reclining seat for easy feeding and is very compact when folded.

Stocking Stuffers

Small but useful gifts for everyday are great for filling up baby's stocking.

- To soothe babies from birth to three months, Natural Comfort pacifiers help to promote breast latch-on and are less confusing for breast-fed babies.

- For older babies ready to begin drinking from a cup, the Cool Kids soft spout trainer cup is gentle on baby's developing teeth and gums and is designed to help ease the transition from bottle to cup.

- For babies who have mastered the trainer cup, Dazzler cups have interactive 3-D designs on an insulated sleeve that keeps drinks cool longer. The cup includes a textured rim for easy grasp by tiny hands.
