Great Gifts For Mobile Professionals

(NAPSA)—Wracking your brain for the perfect gifts for the professional on your list? Finding these great gifts doesn't have to be a lot of work. Gift experts say the key is to think about what he/she does during the day and then to give a gift that will make that job easier.

For instance, professionals who are constantly on the go may appreciate gifts that help increase their mobility and untether them from the office. New types of gadgets can allow people to do just that. They provide businesspeople with the latest technology that is essential for staying in touch with co-workers and family while on the road. Here's a closer look:

Travel Talk

Wireless communication devices are now the talk of the town. They are letting business travelers easily stay in touch through phone, email, IM, and of course wireless Internet. All of this, in one small device! Now the question is, which to choose? Active professionals will find it difficult to choose among HP's handheld offerings that include the HP iPAQ hw6500 and HP iPAQ rx1950. Gift-giving gurus find that the HP iPAQ hw6500 series Mobile Messenger offers three-way wireless capability and lets users securely access digital content and services such as corporate data, wireless printing and music or video downloads. The device even features a GPS receiver to help keep businesspeople from getting lost on their way to meetings. Businesspeople can also use the device's built-in keyboard to work on Excel or PowerPoint presentations—or the iPAQ's Bluetooth technology to send and receive information while away from the office.

Also on the top of lists for mobile enthusiasts is the HP iPAQ rx1950, equipped with integrated Wi-Fi. Small, sleek, and affordably priced, the HP iPAQ rx1950 not only keeps individuals wirelessly connected and organized, but an ample removable battery keeps the iPAQ running longer—keeping up with even the busiest professional.

Travel Smart

Space is a commodity when you are on the road. For those businesspeople that need to find an extension to handhelds, they can use high-tech and portable tablet PCs to take notes in their own handwriting and to access office documents. For instance, the HP Compaq tc4200 Tablet PC is a full-function PC that's light, stylish and powerful. It provides a number of security options that will make IT managers happy and its multiple wireless functions can make it easier to connect to the Web—and the office—from the road. The tablet PC has a 12.1-inch display that can be used as a traditional screen or that can be swiveled to a flat position and "written" on with a special pen.
