

Fun With Digital Photography

(NAPSA)—The exciting trend towards digital photography has become hard to ignore as more and more people discover the creative and convenient benefits of going digital. Whether you purchase a digital camera or scan in your favorite photos—digital photography is a great way to keep everyone updated by sending images via e-mail. There is so much more you can do with these images and the last thing you want to do is forget about these special memories by keeping them tucked away in a computer. Today's latest innovations in inkjet printers called All-in-One inkjets allow users to scan, print, and copy photos all from one device. They offer an easy, versatile and affordable (no need to purchase separate products!) solution to consumers looking for a complete digital imaging workplace.

An All-in-One inkjet printer (also called a multifunction printer) can create photo-quality prints without the hassle of a trip to the photofinisher. Best of all, you don't even have to own a digital camera, simply scan old photos using your All-in-One inkjet and you're ready to print. Not only can you pick and choose only the photos you'd like to make prints of—a great money saver; you can also create some uniquely cool keepsakes. Here are just a few fun, creative projects to make with photos and an All-in-One inkjet printer.

- Personalized photo albums for special occasions, weddings, birthdays, graduation, or a baby's first year offer endless possibilities for making memories last. Choose photos, layout and add personalized captions for a design that suits your needs. Give as a gift or keep for yourself for years of enjoyment.

- Fun with photo editing using your favorite photo editing software and your imagination can make your dreams come true. Create a picture of a friend or family member with their favorite celebrity or on a tropical island—print and make a fantasy into reality.

- Assemble a calendar designed specifically for a loved one. Choose the photos that best fit the month. Don't forget to enter in birthdays and other reminders. A personalized photo calendar will be a gift they will cherish throughout the entire year.

- Reprints are made easy by printing out digital images and framing them, just as you would with traditional prints. The best part is that you don't have to wait for the photo developer to process your order. Reprints printed at home are the perfect way to share special photos with loved ones, without ever having to give away an original print.

If you don't already own a color inkjet printer or All-in-One inkjet, consider the following tips when shopping. An advanced paper handling system like Lexmark's patented Accu-Feed system accommodates heavy-stock or specialty photo paper.
