Computing, Easy As "One"

(NAPSA)—Opening a new door to more efficient computer use for many people is a way to do all your work on one screen—without having to switch between the clutter of applications or windows.

What many call the next generation computing and Internet solution can be found in one free application.

It's done through a free downloadable software application that offers Web-based, encrypted e-mail; customizable Real-Time News, sports, stock, and weather notices delivered to your desktop, e-mail, and instant messenger, at no charge; virtual storage on the Internet so you can access your information from any computer and a universal chat application.

There's anti-virus software, a built-in spreadsheet, daily planner and calendar. Called MyOne Screen, the system provides a platform for sharing documents, presentations and critical information in a completely secure environment—all on One Screen.
