You: A Model?

(NAPSA)—If you've ever thought about being a model—or even if you've never given it a consideration—a new contest could be your chance to put your best face forward and show off some of the latest elegant-yet-casual leather accessories.

So you want to be a model? A new contest will give one special woman that opportunity.

The winner of the contest will be featured in Stone Mountain's Accessories Life Style advertising in 2002. In addition, the winner will receive a complete line of leather accessories, consisting of a jacket, handbags, belts, wallets, attaché cases, luggage and more. Also, the full value of that line of prizes will be donated in the winner's name to the Stone Mountain Breast Cancer Awareness Fund.

For the contest, Stone Mountain is seeking attractive women over 25 years of age.

Stone Mountain, one of America's leading leather accessories companies, has been around for more than 20 years. The company designs and manufactures some of the highest quality leather goods that are sold in department stores and specialty shops.
