

Present Pointers

(NAPSA)—You can be known for having the gift for giving if you heed three hints:

1. Make it personal. Consider the recipient's hobbies and interests. Give a gardener seeds and gloves; send kitchen equipment to the gourmet cook.

2. Make it unique. If you have a special talent for knitting or painting or photography, give something you've created just for them. Even if your photography skills are not that picture perfect, you can turn any snapshot into something memorable with a customized photo gift.

To help, Walgreens provides personalized wall decor, mugs, totes, blankets, ornaments, desk accessories, clothing, calendars, photo books, canvas prints, puzzles, and cases for smartphones and tablets. You can even get holiday ornaments in assorted shapes and frames. There's something to make just about everyone on your list feel extra special.

3. Wrap it up. Any gift can seem better in a beautifully wrapped box.
