

Vacations Of A Lifetime

Instead Of “Taking” Vacations, “Own” Them

(NAPSA)—A growing number of families seeking a complete vacation experience have stopped “taking” vacations altogether. Instead, they’ve begun to “own” them.

The concept of vacation ownership is actually quite simple. At Marriott Vacation Club International, for example, it means you own a week or more in a spacious villa at any of its extraordinary properties. This becomes your “home resort” and helps ensure your family will spend quality time together on your vacation. It also means that vacation is not an “if” anymore, but a “when.” Owning a block of vacation time with Marriott is like owning a house; it’s a deeded property and you can even pass it on to your heirs.

One example of the 52 resorts in the Club is Marriott’s MountainSide in Park City, Utah, home to world-class skiing and an historic site of the 2002 Olympic Games held in February. The “slope side” resort allows vacationers to ski in and ski out.

Another of the resorts in Park City is Marriott’s Summit Watch. It boasts 135 studio and two-bedroom villas. In addition to spacious accommodations, amenities for both resorts include a heated pool and exercise center.

rafting, horseback riding, hot air ballooning, rock climbing, mountain biking, fishing and hiking.

For vacationers looking to simply rent at either of these resorts this summer or fall, savvy travelers can take advantage of discounted Sunday through Thursday rates from $59 for deluxe guest rooms to $119 for two-bedroom villas, subject to availability.

A customized two-week vacation in the Marriott Vacation Club program allows families to spend quality time together as well as save money. Marriott reports more than 72 percent of owners say they have saved or expect to save money on their vacations.
