Make Extra Cash Now: Five Easy Steps To Selling Your Vehicle Online

(NAPSA)—Everybody is looking to make some extra money in today's down economy. With rising fuel costs, many families are looking to downgrade to smaller, fuel-efficient vehicles or even motorcycles, which are now in high demand online. This could be an opportunity to get more out of selling your vehicle.

The Internet makes selling a car more efficient and profitable. There are many third-party Web sites, such as eBay Motors, that allow you to list your car for free with as many photos and descriptive words as you wish, exposing your vehicle to more than 12 million people a month.

Here are some tips for selling a used vehicle online:

- Research first to see what the same vehicle is worth and what others have sold for online.

- Price the vehicle competitively to encourage offers and bidding. Starting out too high can deter buyers.

- Provide clear photos of the interior and exterior, including any defects.

- List every detail, including mileage, past owners and history.

- Use third-party sites such as eBay Motors at www.ebaymotors.com, where you can list a vehicle for free.
