Say Take A Hike To Renting Band Instruments

(NAPSA)—Students and parents who have been renting musical instruments are realizing that it's now less expensive to buy than to rent.

According to Lon T. Palmer (owner of the oldest music mail order house in the USA). "Beginner instruments used to need a great deal of handcrafting before they would play well enough to sell, and that kept the prices high. These new band and orchestral instruments are manufactured using the latest computer assisted manufacturing techniques—and they play like instruments costing two to three times as much.”

If you're buying fine imported musical instruments instead of renting, you're in tune with the times.

A quick visit to www.musicalinstruments.com confirmed that trumpets, clarinets and flutes that used to cost $400 to $500 are now available for about $200. Similar savings were realized on saxophones, trombones, violins, violas, cellos and upright basses.
