A Surprising Ozark
Attraction

Collectors and fans of the artwork that features children with teardrop eyes are making their way to a chapel in the Ozarks.

This is just one of the many remarkable sites that can be found at a vacation destination that combines the spectacular and the serene.

Called Precious Moments Chapel, it's located in the foothills of the Ozark Mountains in Carthage, Missouri, just a short drive from the family resort Branson, Missouri.

Of the thousands of vacationers that visit the chapel every year, many are enthusiasts who see the chapel as the home of the Precious Moments art they love. Others, who know just a little about Precious Moments and the gift line, are often amazed at all they see.

Samuel J. Butcher, the artist behind one of the world's top selling collectible lines, created the chapel as a gift of thanks.

It is considered by many to be both an inspirational and architectural masterpiece.
