

Baseball's Brightest Stars Head To Wisconsin

(NAPSA)—Baseball fans from around the world will turn their attention to Wisconsin this July as Major League Baseball's brightest stars take to the spectacular setting of Milwaukee's Miller Park for the 2002 MLB All-Star Weekend.

The air in Miller Park will be charged with baseball fever as fans glimpse the stars of tomorrow in the 2002 All-Star Futures Game and enjoy the fun of the 2002 Celebrity Softball Game on July 7. The excitement will continue to build July 8 as baseball's best sluggers swing for the fences during the 2002 Century 21 Home Run Derby. Then on July 9, the sounds of cheering fans will echo worldwide as baseball's greatest players take to the field for the 73rd Annual MLB All-Star Game.

Throughout the weekend, fans can experience "Baseball Heaven on Earth," as they participate in baseball clinics, enjoy interactive baseball attractions, view displays tracing the history of baseball, and take part in autograph sessions at the John Hancock All-Star FanFest at the Midwest Express Center from July 5-9.
