New Video Fun For The Whole Family

(NAPSA)—Who’s coming over to your house for a playdate? Some parents find the best way to entertain children is to invite a few television and movie stars.

This can be easier than you imagine. Kids can play with their favorite TV and movie stars on four new videogame adventures for kids, based on their favorite TV shows and movies. The videogames include:

- Rugrats: Totally Angelica—This all-new Rugrats PlayStation game is just for girls. In this game, Angelica stars in her very own fashion show. Players guide Angelica through several levels competing in various mini-games in order to win prizes. Players collect jewelry, clothes, shoes, accessories and other items for the fashion show where they find out if they have what it takes to outfit “the prettiest, most beautiful kid in the whole universe.”

- SpongeBob SquarePants: Legend of the Lost Spatula—In this game, SpongeBob SquarePants splashes into Game Boy color. SpongeBob is searching for the Flying Dutchman’s Golden Spatula so he can become the greatest fry cook of all time. Players help SpongeBob search for hidden clues, unlock secret levels, avoid jellyfish and even feed hungry ghosts.

- Rocket Power Gettin’ Air—Nickelodeon’s hottest breakout cartoon, Rocket Power, comes to Game Boy Color in this game. Players roller blade with Otto, hang ten with Sam, and get some wicked BMX air with Twister. Players should read Reggie’s Zine after each level to check out their results. That way they can find out if they will make the front page.

- Blues Clues: Blues Big Musical—Children will be eager to get their “paws” on the first big Blue’s Clues game for PlayStation. They can help Blue and Steve prepare for Blue’s Big Musical by setting the stage, finding performers and picking out songs to play. Children can take one step at a time to solve six different Blue’s Clues mysteries and play three arcade-style games.

All of these fun video games were created by THQ and Nickelodeon. For more information, visit www.thq.com.
