Far-Out Tips On Throwing A Groovy '70s Party

(NAPSA)—Put the fever back in Saturday night! Whether you were born before, during or after, trends of the '70s ignite entertaining memories for everyone, from disco balls to John Travolta on the big screen.

From clothing to entertainment, the '70s are "stayin' alive" with mainstream software companies releasing trendy games such as Kung Fu Chaos on the Xbox, and apparel giants bringing back original '70s-influenced footwear.

Get in the groove by throwing an "outta sight" '70s party. It's easier than you might think.

Décor

✓ To Bead or Not To Bead—

Set the mood from the moment they walk through the door with beaded curtains, found at vintage stores.

✓ Have a Disco Ball—No '70s party is complete without a disco ball with its psychedelic spin...rent one at a party store.

✓ Gotta Lava It—It's time to plug in the lamp and relive the magic.

Entertainment

✓ Fondue You—It's popular right now, but it's straight from the '70s. You and your guests will have a blast dunking and dipping.

✓ Start "Kung Fu Chaos"—Plug this funky game into your Xbox and watch your guests revel

From bellbottoms to kung fu video games, the '70s have come back into style.

in the wackiness of this '70s-themed "brawler."

✓ Disco Duck—Buy a "Best of the '70s" CD and boogie the night away to tunes everyone will know.

Fashion

✓ Have You Hugged Your Hips Today?—Hip huggers or bellbottoms? Just stop by any store and ask for the "low rise" department.

✓ Bring the Bling—Known today as "bling-bling," no '70s dude is really swinging without a gold chain mingling with his chest hairs.

✓ Leisure Suits You—Create an unforgettable spectacle in original velour duds.
