

Holiday Hints

Hanging At Home For The Holidays

(NAPSA)—This holiday season, unwrap the good times with your family.

Whether it is taking time out from seasonal festivities or staying in from the cold, an opportunity to enjoy yourself at home can be easier to create than many realize. Some helpful hints include the following:

1. Be imaginative in the kitchen. Have some fun with the kids baking holiday shaped cookies or toasting marshmallows by the fire.

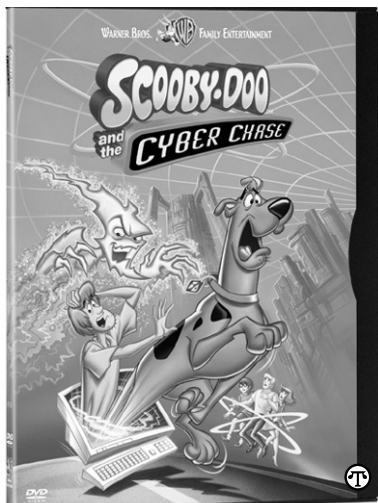

2. Get reacquainted with your creative side. Use the holidays as a time to get crafty at home with the kids by cutting out paper snowflakes or making snowmen with cottonballs and construction paper.

3. Share some laughs. The perfect way to accomplish this is a movie night with the kids featuring quality, family entertainment on home video. Among the season's most popular titles are the following:

- Scooby-Doo and the Cyber Chase finds the dog detective and his human crew as they face what many call their most electrifying case ever. They are zapped into a high-tech computer game based on their own Mystery, Inc. adventures in this all-new, feature-length movie. The DVD version includes the world premiere of an all-new music video and a virtual detective game.

The DVD-ROM features demos of three games while the VHS includes tips for the games on the Playstation Game Console. Inside every video purchased, kids will find a bonus booklet featuring savings on games, toys, snacks and more, plus puzzles and activities.

- Pokémon: Mewtwo Returns is a never-before-seen sequel to the original box office hit. The video features action and adventure as Ash and all the Pokémon protect Mewtwo from the evil Team Rocket. The DVD includes an uncut version of "The Story of Mewtwo's Origin," a new theme song and video trailers.

A good way to entertain the family at home this holiday season is to gather around and watch great family movies from Warner Home Video.

- Osmosis Jones saves the day as he makes his DVD and VHS debut. Every "body" needs a hero like Jones, germ fighter extraordinaire and one "cell" of a guy. This infectiously funny live-action/animated caper shows how white blood cell cop, Osmosis Jones, thwarts an epidemic of evil. Called "just plain clever" by critic Roger Ebert, the video's all star cast includes Molly Shannon, Chris Elliot, Bill Murray and the voice talents of Chris Rock, Laurence Fishburne, David Hyde Pierce, Brandy and William Shatner. The DVD includes behind-the-scenes views and commentaries, an "Under the Microscope" feature and special puzzles. Included with every purchase is a CD sampler with music from Sugar Ray, POD and Willa Ford.

All of these entertaining Warner Home Video titles are available for rental or purchase. To learn more, visit www.whvdirect.com.