

Youth Put The Brakes On Underage Drinking And Impaired Driving

(NAPSA)—Every year, underage drinking and driving crashes cause more than 2,200 deaths.

Although automobile crashes are the number one cause of death for teens in America, there's something teens can do to keep from being another statistic. Family, Career and Community Leaders of America (FCCLA) offers a national education program through which young people strive to save lives through sober driving, seat belt use, and safe-driving habits. FACTS—Families Acting for Community Traffic Safety—is dedicated to helping teens learn about the realities of traffic safety.

FCCLA members work together with the National Organizations for Youth Safety (NOYS) to help today's youth put the brakes on impaired driving and traffic crashes. Through peer education, teens can help their friends arrive alive and lower the number of traffic-related deaths in America.

By becoming involved with FCCLA, teens can be informed on the realities of traffic safety. Through FACTS projects, FCCLA reaches children, teens and adults through traffic safety projects and activities. To learn more, visit www.fcclainc.org.
