Finding A Place To Volunteer Now Easier

(NAPSA)—Where there's a volunteer, there's a way. That's the good news an online nonprofit service has for anyone who wants to find a great place to volunteer.

The service, called Volunteer-Match, works like this: Potential volunteers simply enter their ZIP code at www.VolunteerMatch.org to receive an up-to-date listing of local volunteer opportunities posted by thousands of local nonprofits. Volunteers may also specify an interest—the most popular are “Community,” “Children & Youth” and “Education & Literacy”—to refine the list of available opportunities. Once an opportunity of interest is found, a simple click is all it takes to make contact and get involved.

Whether you can spend 10 hours a week or 10 minutes, whether you want to support the arts or the environment, whether you want to stay home or get out, the service is set up to help you help others and at the same time feel better about yourself.
