Summer Entertaining Hosted By The California Avocado Commission

[NAPSA]—With longer days and warmer nights, entertaining becomes almost inevitable during the summer months. Thanks to the abundance of fresh produce, like California avocados, your backyard barbecues, pool parties and beachside picnics will never have to sacrifice versatility or taste. Not only does summertime offer the perfect opportunity to gather friends and family around the table, the season also welcomes a vast variety of vibrant produce and local ingredients to enjoy together. To celebrate the peak of California avocado season, the California Avocado Commission (CAC) sought the help of Michelin-recognized chef, Brad Cecchi, Executive Chef and Partner of Canvas, a fine-dining destination in burgeoning East Sacramento, to develop a shareable dish starring fresh California avocados.

Originally from Sacramento, Cecchi takes full advantage of the region’s remarkable access and robust quality of fruits and vegetables, especially finals. California avocados—available now through late summer. “With my roots so deeply embedded in California’s central valley, I’ve always been committed to cooking with the fruits and vegetables that our neighboring communities grow,” said Cecchi. “California avocados are currently at their peak, so I’m taking full advantage of their availability and unmistakable rich flavor to spotlight on my seasonal menu.”
